

Barbara J. Linney, MA

Barbara J. Linney is Vice President of the Certifying Commission in Medical Management. She is known for her work in career counseling, management development, and communications training. Barbara's background includes one-on-one counseling, seminar presentations, published articles, and college-level teaching. She is author of the book, A Career Guide for Physician Executives, 2nd edition of Hope for the Future and co-author of the book Physician Executives: What, Why and How, 2nd Edition.

Barbara is a graduate of University of Richmond in Virginia; earned her master's degree at the University of North Carolina-Charlotte; and has completed the coursework for her doctorate at the University of South Florida in Tampa.

Barbara is a presenter in the Tutorial to become a Certified Physician Executive and in the Conflict & Cooperation program. She helps design and deliver educational programs and is ACPE's career counselor.

College members have heard her speak on topics such as Improving Interpersonal Communications, Conflict Management, Delivering Effective Presentations, Conducting Effective Meetings, and Writing for the Physician Executive.