

William Smits, MD

Dr. William Smits is an Allergy and Pulmonary Specialist. He graduated Phi Beta Kappa with a Chemistry degree from Depauw University and received his doctorate in medicine from the University of Hawaii. He trained in his two specialty areas during his residency and fellowship at the University of Iowa Hospital and Clinics. He is now an associate professor at the Indiana University Medical Center and serves as the Allergy and Asthma Center's Medical Director. The Allergy and Asthma Center had humble beginnings with just two nurses and a receptionist, but quickly grew to fifty- five employees.

In 2002, the Allergy and Asthma Center was awarded the nation's top honor for Medical Practice of the Year by Physician's Practice Magazine. Practice Innovation, a medical consulting and solutions company was conceived after achieving this professional triumph. Dr. Smits has shared his business principals with over 500 physicians through the sales of his on line business course, Secrets of America's Best Medical Practice.

Dr. Smits was raised in Hawaii before coming to Indiana for college in 1980. In the fall of 1995 he moved to Fort Wayne, where he now lives with his wife and five children. They enjoy camping, fishing, skiing, and family vacations. Dr. Smits' personal passion is Chrysler muscle cars.
